SECOND WIND · APPLICATION

A product. Three faces. An energy.

The same design foundation, played out at three intensities: punchy to motivate the coach, structured to guide the administrator, and calming to reassure the nursing home. Adapted boxing, never a fight.

01 The palette

Red acts, gold rewards, blue informs, green reassures — on many levels
Cream. Each color has a role, never decorative.

GRADIENT MOVEMENT · RED ÿ GOLD

the signature gesture — action buttons, heroes, medals

02 Typography

Three families, three functions. Sporting impact for the numbers, structure for the interface, readable smoothness for the text.

16 Body text ÿ 16px. We are speaking to seniors and caregivers — never use tiny text.

44 Targets ÿ 44px. Generous buttons, easy to aim on tablet as well as with finger.

AA AA contrast. Dark text on cream, white on ink. Readability takes precedence over effect.

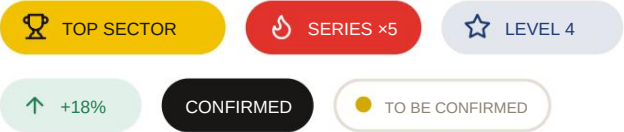

03 The kit

The building blocks shared by the three surfaces. Gamification (badges, medals, (series) motivates without ever patronizing.

04 Three atmospheres

Same system, three settings. The density, tone and intensity of red change depending on who is looking at the screen.

The screen that makes you want to go there. Dramatic ink background, striking red-to-gold gradient, large Anton numbers, badges, and series. The coach is an athlete: he's praised, ranked, and encouraged. Red is everywhere—it's the driving force.

DATA-DRIVEN

SOBER

The screen that drives the structure. Sidebar ink, understated KPIs, gold graphs, dense tables, Anton tabular figures. Here, red is rare—reserved for the active item and alerts. Data first, the calm of the pro.

Mobility

The screen that reassures caregivers. Lots of white and cream, larger size, blue and green for health and progress. Red is almost invisible: here, the focus is not on stimulation, but on support. Large buttons, sharp contrasts—designed for hands and eyes that are less comfortable with screens.

05 The journey through screens

From the welcome screen to the profile, here's the coaching app as we experience it — planning, making ourselves available, to track its progress — then an overview from the administration and care home perspective to help plan ahead completely.

06 The principles

Four rules that hold the three surfaces together.

1 Gamify without infantilizing

Points, series, medals — but with a sporting and adult aesthetic. Performance is celebrated, not child's play.

2. Readable for non-tech people

Seniors and caregivers first: body text › 16px, large buttons, clear labels in French, zero jargon. Simplicity is a feature.

3 Controlled energy

Red acts, it doesn't shout. Full screen for the coach, rare for the admin, almost absent in the nursing home. The intensity follows the context.

4 One base, three intensities

Same tokens, same components, same grammar. What changes is the dosage: density, tone, and proportion of red.
